

Service Center Network Far East

We are more than just a manufacturer of coiled tubing.
We are your partner through your entire operation.

We service the industry with our growing network of service centers, supporting your global needs. Strategically placed, our regional locations can deliver the products and services you need, when and where you need them.

Stelkraft Acquisition

We recently acquired Stelkraft, the Singapore-based manufacturer of coiled tubing, pumping and other related support equipment. Now known as Hydra Rig, this location has become the pioneer of manufacturing improved and innovated equipment and accessories in the Asia Pacific.

We have partnered with Hydra Rig to be able to provide both a coiled tubing service center and finished goods stocking point.

Local Stocking Points

The coiled tubing strings, stored at our local stocking points, are designed to meet your specific requirements for your Far East operations. This allows for immediate delivery, improving your operational efficiency.
